

Dear Employee or Volunteer,

As you are aware, the Charter for the Protection of Children and Youth, approved by the Catholic Bishops in November 2002, requires diocese to conduct criminal background checks on all diocesan personnel and volunteers every five years. To accomplish this we will conduct a criminal check on you through Wisconsin's Crime Information Bureau (even if we have done so at time of hire for employees), and a national data-bank criminal check, conducted by First Advantage, (<https://volunteer.fadv.com/pub/>). We will only be conducting a criminal records check.

First Advantage is considered a consumer reporting agency, subject to the laws of the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). These laws require that before a "consumer credit report" (which includes criminal record checks) is completed, you will receive a summary of your rights under the FCRA (attached), and that you grant the parish the authority to obtain this report.

Please complete the authorization form below and return it to Michael Ricci (employees) or Debbie Caputo (volunteers). If you have any questions, please call Michael Ricci at 262-781-3480, Ext. 253. Thank you for your assistance.

Rev. Dennis Saran, Pastor

Consumer Credit Report Authorization

In order to ensure that the Archdiocese of Milwaukee is operating in a safe and sound manner, consistent with its responsibilities and obligations to the Faithful and to the community, the archdiocese requests that a "consumer credit report" as that term is defined in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. §1681a), be prepared for employment or volunteer purposes, following the date you sign this document. Your signature below will grant and acknowledge the archdiocese's authority to obtain such a consumer credit report.

I hereby acknowledge that I have read the foregoing and understand this disclosure, and agree to grant the Archdiocese of Milwaukee, its subsidiaries and affiliates, and its and their employees and agents, authority to obtain a consumer credit report (criminal record check).

A SUMMARY OF YOUR RIGHTS UNDER THE FAIR CREDIT REPORTING ACT**

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) is designed to promote accuracy, fairness and privacy of information in the files of every “consumer reporting agency” (CRA). Most CRA’s are credit bureaus that gather and sell information about you – such as if you pay your bills on time or have filed bankruptcy – to creditors, landlords, and other businesses. You can find the complete text of the FCRA, 15 U.S.C. §1681a-1681u. The FCRA gives you specific rights, as outlined below. You may have additional rights under state law. You may contact a state or local consumer protection agency or a state attorney general to learn those rights.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses information from a CRA to take action against you – such as denying an application for credit, insurance, or employment – must tell you, and give you the name, address, and phone number of the CRA that provided the consumer report.
- You can find out what is in your file. At your request, a CRA must give you the information in your file, and a list of everyone who has requested it recently. There is no charge for the report if a person has taken action against you because of information supplied by the CRA, if you request the report within 60 days of receiving notice of the action. You also are entitled to one free report every twelve months upon request if you certify that (1) you are unemployed and plan to seek employment within 60 days, (2) you are on welfare, or (3) your report is inaccurate due to fraud. Otherwise, a CRA may charge you up to eight dollars.
- You can dispute inaccurate information with the CRA. If you tell a CRA that your file contains inaccurate information, the CRA must investigate the items (usually within 30 days) by presenting to its information source all relevant evidence you submit, unless your dispute is frivolous. The source must review your evidence and report its findings to the CRA. (The source must advise national CRAs – to which it has provided the data – of any error.) The CRA must give you a written report of the investigation, and a copy of your report if the investigation results in any change. If the CRA’s investigation does not resolve the dispute, you may add a brief statement to your file. The CRA must normally include a summary of your statement in future reports. If an item is deleted or a dispute statement is filed, you may ask that anyone who has recently received your report be notified of the change.
- Inaccurate information must be corrected or deleted. A CRA must remove or correct inaccurate or unverified information from its files within 30 days after you dispute it. However, the CRA is not required to remove accurate data from your file unless it is outdated (as described below) or cannot be verified. If your dispute results in any change to your report, the CRA cannot reinsert into your file a disputed item unless the information source verifies its accuracy and completeness. In addition, the CRA must give you written notice telling you it has reinserted the item. The notice must include the name, address and phone number of the information source.
  - You can dispute inaccurate items with the source of the information. If you tell anyone – such as a creditor who reports to a CRA – that you dispute an item, they may not then report the information to a CRA without including a notice of your dispute. In addition, once you’ve notified the source of the error in writing, it may not continue to report the information if it is, in fact, an error.
  - Outdated information may not be reported. In most cases, a CRA may not report negative information that is more than seven years old; ten years for bankruptcies.
  - Access to your file is limited. A CRA may provide information about you only to people with a need recognized by the FCRA – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord or other business.
  - Your consent is required for reports that are provided to employers, or reports that contain medical information. A CRA may not give out information about you to your employer, or prospective employer, without your written consent. A CRA may not report medical information about you to creditors, insurers, or employers without your permission.
  - You may choose to exclude your name from CRA lists for unsolicited credit and insurance offers. Creditors and insurers may use file information as the basis for sending you unsolicited offers of credit or insurance. Such offers must include a toll-free phone number for you to call if you want your name and address removed from future lists. If you call, you must be kept off the list for two years. If you request, complete and return the CRA form provided for this purpose, you must be taken off the lists indefinitely.
  - You may seek damage from violators. If a CRA, a user or (in some cases) a provider of CRA data, violates the FCRA, you may sue them in state or federal court.

The FCRA gives several different federal agencies authority to enforce the FCRA:
